Guzzania - By advertisement in another lame it will be seen that a reward of five bundred dollars is offered for the apprehension and delivery of George T. Madison at the nearest military post On the 27th July he, with a party of men, cap tured the mail carrier on the route from Pueble to Fort Garland, appropriated the contents of the mail and paroled the carrier.

It will be remembered that there was a campa ny connected with Sibley's command, while it was in the Territory, which was known as the "Brigands." It was composed of men who had resided in New Mexico, many of whom were desparate characters and all of whom made themselves notorious for the free and easy manner in which they appropriated the property of others to their own In their acts they well filled the name they bore. At the breaking up which took place in Arisona antecedent to the final departure of the Texan forces thence these Brigands reorganized and elected Madison for Captain and instead of going south turned their course northward. For some time they were in the neighborhood of Autouchice, prowling through the meustains in the day time and visiting the settlements at night What was the extent of the depredations they

What was the extent of the depredations they committed there we do not know.

It is thought that this band has had some hand in the commission of the murders to the east of this city of which we made mention some time since in these columns.

We are not informed as to how many followers Madison has in his band, or what is his mode of operating. His seizurs and release of the mail carrier, and robbery of the mail exhibit a boldness and andacity that is not often manifested by ordinary highway robbers. We infer from the facts Washington, July 23.

When the President was here General McClellan recommended and urfied such an appointment but told the President not to allow his claim to interfere with his action in the matter.

There are several thousand men unfit for duty, although the health of the army has improved since it came to James river.

It was defended by a regiment of rebel cavalry, supported by a strong force of infantry and artillery, and a rebel fort which commanded the rivers.

There were numerous masked batteries along the river, as also a robel steamer filled with sharp shooters.

While the gan boats attacked and dispersed the mon in the batteries, the Zouaves advanced on the town, accompanied by detachments from the gudboats. The fort was taken by a charge, also

Their husbands are the most wealthy citizens of Memphis, and now hold positions in the rebel ranks. More will follow.

Rumor has it now that Memphis is to be retaken by the robels in precisely five days.

It is generally credited by the seconsionists of the city that a large force is concentrating near here for the sudden demolition of the Union army and the reoccupation of the Missusippi. They gather great confort from the item lately published that Lexington and Louisville, Ky., were three tanded by their army.
